

NOW HIRING: Field Director (Uganda)

About us

Empower Through Health (ETH) is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization that serves a community of over 70,000 people from 54 villages in rural Uganda. ETH works to empower the world's most vulnerable by providing healthcare, conducting research, and developing sustainable and scalable solutions to health issues in these communities.

The Field Director position

The Empower Through Health Field Director position is for recent graduates (2022 and after) looking to make a tangible, real-world impact through on-site global health work and experiential leadership. ETH is looking to hire 1-2 passionate, motivated, and flexible volunteers to participate in public health field work and manage essential administrative tasks.

Field Directors will live with Ugandan staff and work out of ETH headquarters in Iganga, Uganda. Hires will be provided with housing and a $250 monthly stipend. Field Directors will carry out the following administrative duties:

- Remote management of the ETH university chapter system
- Regular communication through social media, newsletters, etc.
- Coordination of fundraising drives and donor management
- Oversight of budgets and financing

Field Directors will also travel each week to ETH's rural health center to collaborate with community health workers on public health research and project implementation. Types of work may include:

- Creation and administration of community-wide surveys
- Focus group discussions
- Mass immunizations / drug administrations
- Community education programs

Current project topics include malaria, helminthic infections, mental health, contraception & maternal health, malnutrition, and environmental health.

Applicants should contact admin@ethealth.org with CV and cover letter.
